

The Prurigo Nodularis League (PNL) was founded in 2014 and serves as a mutual platform for doctors, patients and academics to join together in discourse on prurigo nodularis, a highly pruritic skin disease. Since the term "prurigo" entered the field of dermatology, it has been used to describe diverse diseases associated with pruritus. To this day, there is still no exact classification of the various pruriginous forms. Despite its prevalence and severity, prurigo nodularis remains a relatively unknown skin disease. Essential aspects regarding the etiology and pathogenesis of prurigo nodularis remain unclear and controlled studies of systemic therapies have been rare. Our goal is to raise global awareness and provide current news relating to this debilitating illness

We invite you to join our initiative. Members have no obligations, but are simply part of the network and kept up-to-date on current happenings related to prurigo nodularis. League members are regularly informed about the results of current studies and news about diagnostics and treatment.

Members who provide an e-mail address receive a regular newsletter informing them on current happenings related to prurigo nodularis. Furthermore, the PNL Facebook platform regularly posts information on various PN-related topics such as current studies, ongoing conferences, and scientific news about diagnostics and treatment.
